

Political CV

Chen Shiyun Elysa, 陈诗韵

- Having lost her father to cancer when she was 16 years old, she has felt keenly the importance of ensuring that people are well-supported during difficult periods in their lives.
- She started out her career as a crime reporter with Singapore Press Holdings from 2007 – 2011. Her experiences during this time led to deep convictions about supporting children from lower-income families.
- After leaving SPH, she worked as a lecturer in General Paper at Hwa Chong Institution and started volunteering as a tutor with CampusImpact.
- She was appointed as the Executive Director at CampusImpact in 2018 and continues to work towards her vision of building strong children, strong families, and a strong society.
- As a district councillor serving on the Social Support Standing Committee on the North West Community Development Council since 2020, she has advocated for policies to support those who fall through the gaps and provided strategic guidance on the implementation of programmes to uplift vulnerable segments of our community by sharing about her ground experiences.
- She has served on Punggol Coast's Citizen's Consultative Committee since 2024 and has organised and supported initiatives to promote bonding among families and strengthen connections within the community.
- Elysa is married with a 2-year-old son.
