 (b) the Evidence Act or any other law or practice regarding the admissibility of evidence.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

This Bill seeks to amend the Wild Animals and Birds Act (Cap. 351) for the following main purposes:

- (a) to expand the scope of, and update, the Act;
- (b) to control the feeding and release of wildlife in Singapore;
- (c) to enable the Director-General, Wildlife Management (the DG) of the National Parks Board (NParks) to require wildlife-related measures to be implemented to address the impact of developments or works in relation to wildlife;
- (d) to introduce new offences and enhance criminal penalties in the Act;
- (e) to enhance enforcement powers in the Act;
- (f) to remove outdated provisions and improve the administration of the Act.

Clause 1 relates to the short title and commencement.

Clause 2 repeals and re-enacts the long title to provide an expanded description of the scope of the Act.

Clause 3 amends the short title — the new short title of the Act is the Wildlife Act.

Clause 4 amends section 2 to delete the definition of “wild animals and birds” and insert, in its place, new definitions of “animal”, “wildlife” and “wildlife species”. The new definitions, among other things, clarify that wildlife includes invertebrates and (to be consistent with other animal-related legislation) the young and eggs of wildlife.

The clause also inserts definitions of other expressions, including the following:

- (a) “animal-related business” — the definition is taken from the Animals and Birds Act (Cap. 7), and the expression appears in the new section 5C (killing, etc., of wildlife) to provide for specific penalties when an offence under that section is committed in specified circumstances by an animal-related business;
- (b) “enforcement officer” — the expression appears in various provisions relating to enforcement powers;

- (c) “place” — the expression appears in various provisions, including the new sections 5A (feeding of wildlife), 5B (releasing of wildlife), 5C (killing, etc., of wildlife), 7 (setting of spring guns, etc.) and 10A (authorised officers’ power to remove wildlife traps, etc.), and is defined as meaning any public or private place;
- (d) “protected wildlife” — this refers to a wildlife which belongs to a species of wildlife prescribed by the Minister (in rules made under the Act) to be a protected wildlife species; the expression appears in the new sections 5C (killing, etc., of wildlife) and 8 (sale or export of wildlife) to provide for the highest penalties when offences under those sections are committed in respect of a protected wildlife.

Clause 5 repeals section 3 (on Minister’s powers to make orders) as it is largely outdated or no longer used. Instead, a new section empowering the Minister to make rules is provided in the new section 21 (under clause 15).

Clause 5 also re-enacts section 3 to clarify, for the avoidance of doubt, that the Act does not affect the operation of the specified written laws, and that the Act does not affect police officers’ powers or duties under the Criminal Procedure Code (Cap. 68) or other written laws.

Clause 6 inserts a new section 4A to provide that authorised officers (appointed under the current section 4) are public servants for the purposes of the Penal Code (Cap. 224). If an authorised officer is involved in the administration, assessment, collection or enforcement of payment of a composition sum under the Act, the authorised officer is also treated as a public officer for the purposes of the Financial Procedure Act (Cap. 109), and section 20 of the Financial Procedure Act (disciplinary punishment for loss of public moneys, etc.) will apply to the authorised officer. This is because composition sums have to be accounted for in the Consolidated Fund.

Clause 7 repeals and re-enacts section 5 and inserts new sections 5A, 5B and 5C to improve the current provision on killing, taking, etc., of wildlife, introduce new provisions to control the feeding and release of wildlife and require the DG’s written approvals for specified activities.

The re-enacted section 5 provides that the DG’s written approvals under the Act for specified activities may be given generally (i.e., as applying to the general public) or to a particular person or a particular class of persons. The DG may also impose conditions on the approvals and decide on the form and manner for giving the approvals (which may include publishing the approvals and the conditions of the approvals on NParks’ official website).

The new section 5A prohibits the intentional feeding of wildlife in any place without the DG’s written approval. A person who has the DG’s written approval must comply with the conditions of the approval. Contravention of the section is an offence.

The new section 5B prohibits the intentional releasing of wildlife in any place without the DG's written approval. A person who has the DG's written approval must comply with the conditions of the approval. Contravention of the section is an offence.

The new section 5C is based on, and enhances, the current section 5 (on killing, taking or keeping of wildlife). The new section 5C prohibits the intentional killing, trapping, taking or keeping of wildlife in any place without the DG's written approval. A person who has the DG's written approval must comply with the conditions of the approval. Contravention of the section is an offence.

Where the offence is in respect of a protected wildlife, the offence attracts the highest punishment (fine not exceeding $50,000, imprisonment for a term not exceeding 2 years or both) — this is irrespective of whether the offender is a person involved in an animal-related business (or not) or a repeat offender (or not).

Where the offence is not in respect of a protected wildlife and the offence is committed by a person involved in an animal-related business, the prescribed punishment is a fine not exceeding $20,000, imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months or both.

Where the offence is not in respect of a protected wildlife and the offence is committed by a person not involved in an animal-related business, the prescribed punishment is —

- (a) a fine not exceeding $10,000, imprisonment for a term not exceeding 6 months or both for a first offence; and
- (b) a fine not exceeding $20,000, imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months or both for a repeat offence.

Clause 8 amends section 6 (on defence of property) to make consequential changes.

Clause 9 repeals and re-enacts sections 7, 8, 9 and 10, and inserts a new section 10A, to remove outdated or unnecessary provisions, improve the current provisions on the setting of spring guns, etc., for wildlife and the sale, export and import of wildlife, and introduce new powers relating to wildlife-related measures for developments or works and the removal of wildlife traps.

The re-enacted section 7 is based on the current section 9 on the setting of spring guns, etc., which are likely to endanger human life or cause grievous hurt to humans. The re-enacted section 7 prohibits the setting of spring guns, etc., in any place without the DG's written approval. A person who has the DG's written approval must comply with the conditions of the approval. Contravention of the section is an offence.

The re-enacted section 8 prohibits the sale (including offer for sale) or export of any living or dead wildlife (or any part of it) without the DG's written approval. A person who has the DG's written approval must comply with the conditions of the approval. Contravention of the section is an offence. The re-enacted section 8 also prescribes a higher punishment if the offence is committed in respect of a protected wildlife.

The re-enacted section 9 prohibits the import of any living wildlife without the DG's written approval. A person who has the DG's written approval must comply with the conditions of the approval. Contravention of the section is an offence.

The re-enacted section 10 empowers the DG to direct a person to implement wildlife-related measures to manage or mitigate the impact of the person's developments or works in relation to wildlife. Directions under the section may be given at any time before the completion (including before the commencement) of the developments or works, and may be given from time to time as the occasion requires (as explained in the Interpretation Act (Cap. 1)). A person who contravenes a direction given under the section commits an offence.

The new section 10A provides that an authorised officer may enter a place at a reasonable time (after giving reasonable notice to the owner or occupier of the place) to inspect the place for any unattended or unauthorised wildlife trap, or to remove or dismantle any unattended or unauthorised wildlife trap in the place.

The authorised officer is not required to give notice (save for the notice to the owner or occupier of a place mentioned above) to anyone before removing, dismantling or disposing of any unattended or unauthorised wildlife trap found in any place, and no compensation is payable to anyone for the removal, dismantling or disposal of the wildlife trap.

The new section 10A also clarifies that an authorised officer is not obligated to inspect any place for, or remove or dismantle, any unattended or unauthorised wildlife trap.

Clause 10 inserts new sections 11A, 11B and 11C to confer search and seizure powers on authorised officers and other enforcement officers (defined under clause 4).

The new section 11A empowers authorised officers and police officers to enter a place in which wildlife is kept (or suspected to be kept), and search the place and any person in it, for the purpose of ascertaining whether an offence under the Act has been or is being committed.

The new section 11A also empowers authorised officers, police officers and officers of customs (collectively, enforcement officers) to stop and enter a conveyance in which wildlife is carried (or suspected to be carried), and search the conveyance and any person in it, for the same purpose.

The new section 11B empowers enforcement officers to seize wildlife and other things if there is reason to believe that an offence under the Act has been or is being committed, and provides for related matters.

The new section 11C provides that an enforcement officer may be accompanied or assisted by necessary persons when the enforcement officer exercises powers under the new section 10A, 11A or 11B.

Clause 11 makes a textual amendment to section 12 (on arrest powers) to make that section consistent with the rest of the Act, and also enhances the punishment for the offence prescribed in the section.

Clause 12 amends section 12B (on the DG's and authorised officers' power to require information about contravention of the Act) to include the power to require the production of documents or articles, and to enhance the punishment for the offence prescribed in the section.

Clause 13 inserts new sections 12C to 12L that deal with various matters.

The new sections 12C and 12D provide for the forfeiture of items seized under the Act.

The new section 12C deals with the treatment of seized items when a person is tried for an offence under the Act. The section requires the court to decide whether a seized item should be forfeited to the DG.

The following exceptions or restrictions apply when the seized item is a conveyance (defined under clause 4):

- (a) the court's power to forfeit a conveyance under the new section 12C applies only if the person who is tried for an offence under the Act is convicted of the offence, and the conveyance was used in the commission of the offence;
- (b) the court's power to forfeit a seized item under the new section 12C also does not apply if the conveyance is more than 200 tons net, or is an aircraft or a train used for a regular passenger service to and from Singapore;
- (c) the court must not order the forfeiture of a conveyance under the new section 12C if the owner of the conveyance establishes that another person had possessed the conveyance unlawfully without the owner's consent.

The new section 12C also requires the court to order the release of a seized item to the owner of or the person entitled to it if the requirements of the section are not met or if the seized item is a conveyance that cannot be forfeited under the section.

The new section 12D provides for the forfeiture, etc., of seized items in cases where a person is not tried for an offence under the Act. In these cases, the DG has to give notice to the persons specified in the section to submit their claims for a seized item within the time specified in the notice.

If a claim is received, the DG may release the seized item to the claimant or refer the matter to a court.

If no claim is received, the unclaimed item (if it is not a conveyance) is forfeited to the DG. If the unclaimed item is a conveyance, the DG must refer the matter to a court.

The new section 12E deals with the DG's powers to dispose, etc., an item forfeited under the new sections 12C and 12D. The DG's powers under the new section 12E include the power to require the repatriation of any wildlife imported or introduced into Singapore in a conveyance in contravention of the Act.

The new section 12F provides for the expenses of the seizure, storage, maintenance, etc., of a seized item to be borne by certain persons specified in the section.

The new section 12G provides for the offence of obstructing the DG or an enforcement officer.

The new section 12H deals with employers and principals and attributes criminal liability to them for offences committed by their employees or agents.

The new section 12I deals with corporate offenders and attributes criminal liability to officers of corporate entities for offences committed by those entities.

The new section 12J deals with unincorporated entities and attributes criminal liability to officers, etc., of unincorporated entities for offences committed by those entities.

The new section 12K empowers the DG or an authorised officer to compound a compoundable offence under the Act.

The new section 12L is a standard provision on the jurisdiction of the District Courts and Magistrates' Courts for offences under the Act.

Clause 14 amends section 14 to make a consequential change.

Clause 15 inserts new sections 15 to 21 to deal with various matters.

The new section 15 relates to procedural matters concerning notices or documents to be given by the DG under the Act.

The new section 16 states that an inaccuracy in the description of any wildlife, person, place, etc., in any document prepared or given under the Act does not affect the operation of the Act if the wildlife, person, place, etc., is otherwise identifiable in the document.

The new section 17 deals with evidentiary matters.

The new section 18 is a standard provision protecting the DG, enforcement officers and persons acting under the directions of the DG or an enforcement officer from personal liability for any act or omission in the execution of any power, or performance of any function, under the Act, if the act or omission was done in good faith and with reasonable care.

The new section 19 is a standard provision on the service of documents under the Act. The section does not deal with service of court documents as this is governed by other written law.

The new section 20 empowers the Minister to exempt, by order in the Gazette, any person (or class of persons), place (or class of places) or wildlife (or class of wildlife) from all or any of the provisions of the Act.

The new section 21 empowers the Minister to make rules necessary or convenient for carrying out or giving effect to the Act.

Clause 16 repeals the Schedule to the Act (on specified wild animals and birds) as it is outdated or no longer used.

Clause 17 empowers the Minister to make regulations on saving and transitional provisions for any provision in the Bill. This power is available only for a period of 2 years after the date of commencement of that provision.
